For a group of three: Obey every command directly upon hearing (reading) it, OR repeat the command to other performers and audience. If repeating, speak directly to whomever you address. Mimic the tone, inflection, and linguistic idiosyncrasies of the commanding voice as closely as possible. If obeying, there is no need to repeat. If repeating, there is no need to obey. Have fun with it (camp), move quickly (think quickly), aim for variety and unpredictability. Try to use every command as it comes—if you miss one, pick up the process on the next command.
